Content	A minor thesis is a scientific paper written by a student as a final assignment during their undergraduate studies. Writing a minor thesis must be based on the results of original research or literature reviews that can be justified academically. The implementation of the minor thesis is carried out by students with the help of lecturers as supervisors. The systematics of minor thesis writing are provided in the form of training/workshops organised by experts. The style of writing a minor thesis is characteristic of each university.
